POESIA

By Alfonsina Storni.

John A. Crow, John T. Reed, John E. Englekirk, Irving A. Leonard.

Squares and Angles

Houses in a line, in a line,

In a line there,

Squares, squares, squares,

Even people now have square souls,

Ideas in file, I declare,

And on their shoulders, angles wear.

Just yesterday I shed a tear and it

Oh, God, was square!

Torquato Tasso ECCO MORMORAR L'ONDE

Now the waves murmur
And the boughs and the shrubs tremble
in the morning breeze,
And on the green branches the pleasant
birds
Sing softly
And the east smiles;
Now dawn already appears
And mirrors herself in the sea,
And makes the sky serene,
And the gentle frost impearls the fields
And gilds the high mountains:
O beautiful and gracious Aurora,
The breeze is your messenger, and you the breeze's
Which revives each burnt-out heart.

Salvador Dali THE ART OF PICASSO

The biological and dynastic phenomenon which constitutes the cubism
of Picasso has been the first great imaginative cannibalism surpassing the experimental ambitions of modern mathematical physics.

* * *

The life of Picasso
will form the polemic basis
as yet misunderstood
according to which
physical psychology
will open up anew
a niche of living flesh
and of darkness
for philosophy.

POESIA

Salomeja Neris

BLUE SISTER, RIVER VILIJA

Vilnele, run to Vilija!
And, Vilija, to Nemunas' shore!
Convey this message: "We love life
But love our country even more!"

We battled hard and long - bloodstained
We come back to the battlefield.
In water pure our wounds we'll bathe
And with green silk we'll bandage them.

And, should you ask the stones what sort
Of men we are, they with one breath
Shall say how valiantly we fought
Our foes whose eyes were closed by death.

Blue sister, River Vilija,
Make haste, make haste to Nemunas' shore!
Convey this message: "We love life
But freedom we love even more."

Edip Cansever

EYES

It seems nothing can provoke
Our inner silence
No sound no word nothing
The eyes bring out the eyes!
Nothing else but this unites us
A leaf touching another leaf
So close and so docile
The hands bring out the hands!
In our age love is an opposition
Let us unite to cast two single shadows...
